

living simply + working deeply

monk mode

JOHN ARUNDEL

Contents

Praise for Monk Mode	6
Introduction	7
1. Monks	8
The monastery	8
La Grande Chartreuse	8
Into Great Silence	9
The monks are happy	9
Focus isn't just for monks	10
“Monk mode”, as sold by TikTok	10
It's not about making yourself miserable	10
A place in the world	11
Going cold turkey	12
The cabbage soup diet	12
Don't retreat, move forward	13
Modern monks	13
Eliminating the unimportant	13
Happy?	13
The 84th problem	14
Finding purpose	15
Safe spaces	15
No hair shirt necessary	16
2. Discipline	18
Order out of chaos	18
Another brick in the wall	18
The homunculus fallacy	19
Who pushes whom around?	19
Explaining ourselves	20
I contain multitudes	20
Not going to the gym	21
The chain of command	21
Emergent behaviour of groups	22
Individual, but not indivisible	22
Protons for breakfast	23
The careenium	23
Campaigning for change	24
All politics is local	24

Starting strength	24
The hypnotised chicken theory	25
What you really want	25
Heads or tails	26
3. Change	27
Is the self-help industry okay?	27
What if there's nothing wrong with you?	27
The self-help quick fix	28
Monks are people too	28
Living with your 83 faults	29
Resolutions	30
Why New Year's resolutions don't work	30
Unachievable goals	30
Let's be smart about this	31
Win or lose, you always lose	31
Focus	31
Choose focus areas, not resolutions	32
When you fall, pick something up	32
Staying with your choices	33
4. Habit	34
Learning to change	34
Tracking behaviour	34
First, face the facts	35
"I'm gonna have to science the shit out of this"	35
The power of data	36
Just paying attention triggers change	36
Finding the levers	36
It's not failure, it's data	37
Behaviour-changing tools	38
The power of streaks	38
Making change stick	39
Getting off the runway	40
Positive change is self-reinforcing	40
Planning to fail	41
Falling off the wagon	41
Tracking is better than banning	41
Being humble about our ability to change	42
Use your limited willpower effectively	42
Use a "personal brain assistant"	43
Fall down seven times, get up eight	43
The art of change	44
5. Craft	45
Fundamentals	46

First learn stand	46
Being a beginner	47
Paying your dues	47
Beginner's mind	48
No reverse gear	48
What is a master but a master student?	49
Tracking your progress	49
Learning from others	50
Abandoning end-gaining	50
Eating bitter	51
Sticking it out	51
Relishing the challenge	52
The joy of doing hard things	52
6. Practice	54
Return on investment	54
The 10,000 hour rule	54
Audiences don't see the practice sessions	55
Optimistic estimates are favoured	55
The rewards start today	56
For the love of craft	56
Unlocking the power of practice	57
Theory	58
Understanding is a force multiplier	58
A teacher can help a lot	58
Books and courses as a displacement activity	59
Technique	60
Tackling the technical	60
How technique practice helps	61
Mixing it up	62
Building the practice habit	62
"Coffee is for closers"	62
Projects	63
Picking your projects	63
Data	64
Do you have the time?	64
The test of patient growth	65
Getting worse instead of better	65
Investing in loss	66
There's more to come!	68
About this book	69
What I do	69
Feedback	69
Free updates to future editions	69

Join my Go Club	70
Code For Your Life	70
For the Love of Go	71
Further reading	71
Acknowledgements	71

Praise for Monk Mode

At last, a really practical and useful book on life skills for engineers. No waffle, just actionable tips on how to focus, organise yourself, and generally get a grip on things. I love it.

—Richard W. Shepard

LIZ: Sometimes the right thing and the hard thing are the same thing. I read that on a teabag.

—“30 Rock”